WAUPUN — About 300 customers waited patiently outside Bargains Galore Thrift Store before the doors opened at 10 a.m. April 16. After being closed for about a month while the final phase of construction was completed, many were curious to see the final product — and to get some good deals.

The three-phase remodel project, called Project Renovate, started April 18, 2008, and was completed April 15. During the first phase the warehouse on the west end of the building was transformed into the donation center with sorting, tagging and storage sections. The second phase was when the woodshed storage area was revamped to become the main sales floor. The final stage was the remodeling of the middle section to bring the entire sales floor together.

"I'm humbled by the amount of service given by the community," Mark Buteyn, superintendent of Central Wisconsin Christian School, said.

All of the labor was done by volunteers and the project was completed under budget. The budget was about $550,000. Parents in Action donated $4,000 and another $18,000 came from individual donations throughout the community. Many companies helped the project by donating labor, equipment or materials or by offering favorable pricing.

"If it wasn't for all of these guys helping me, it wouldn't have been possible," project superintendent Pete Montsma said.

On April 15 an appreciation dinner was held for the project and store volunteers.
